Privacy Policy

The confidentiality of client information is an important concern of Renaissance Macro Research, LLC ("RenMac"). We take precautions to safeguard personal client information at all times and the provisions of this privacy notice will apply to former as well as current clients.

RenMac collects non-public information from the customer application or other forms; information about the customer's transactions with RenMac, its affiliates and others; and information RenMac may receive from a consumer reporting agency.

RenMac does not disclose any non-public personal information about its clients or former clients to anyone, except as permitted by law. RenMac restricts access to personal and account information to those employees and affiliates who need to know that information in order to provide products and services to our clients. We maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with industry standards to safeguard and protect the privacy of non- public information of our clients. Third parties who have access to such personal information must agree to follow appropriate standards of security and confidentiality.

RenMac will only disclose certain information about you, as permitted by law, under the following circumstances:

- In good faith that disclosure is required under law to cooperate with regulators or law enforcement authorities; and
- To our service providers – these service providers, in turn, are required to protect the confidentiality and security of any information provided and may not reuse it for any other purpose.

RenMac may amend this Privacy Policy at anytime. Upon implementation of any changes, you will be notified and such change will become effective upon notice.

Any questions or concerns regarding the Firm's Privacy Policy should be directed to the Chief Compliance Officer at 212-537-8822 or via email customerqueries@renmac.com.
